Writing a history like Ralph Tailors Summer has many limitations and benefits. History From Below is a history, told from the point of view of common people. While most histories focus on the well known people of the time, like the royal or the rich, peoples history deals with the less famous, but equally important everyday people.

Nor would an historian of Britain, at least, attempt to construct a study of the Black Death around the experience of an individual. Wrightson's hero (and the word is not inappropriate), Ralph Tailor, was a young scrivener, who stuck at his job through the plague months of 1636, and survived to become a distinguished local figure, dying in 1669.
